

U. S. PROBES SUGAR SHORTAGE IN CITY

Attorney Kane to Confer With Daniel on Situation in Philadelphia

MAY RESUME WAR BASIS

United States Attorney Kane will confer this afternoon with Todd Daniel, superintendent of the Federal Bureau of Investigation here, on the sugar situation.

Agents of the Department of Justice, under Mr. Daniel's direction, have been making an investigation recently to learn the facts in the existing sugar scarcity.

It is divulged that sugar has been hoarded illegally in Philadelphia and that the United States attorney's office is endeavoring to bring about a resumption of the war basis.

This was one of the two important developments today in the sugar stringency. The second was the appointment of a committee to take charge of the distribution of orders for sugar, very much in the manner followed during the war.

John H. McCarthy, president of the Pennsylvania Sugar Refiners, is one of three members of a committee which will allocate sugar orders. This information was given out today by James E. Bacon, Philadelphia banker, who during the war was sugar administrator in Pennsylvania.

Orders Will Be Allocated

"Orders will be allocated," said Mr. Bacon, "as they were during the war. This will be for the purpose of preventing duplication. The orders will be issued according to the purposes for which the sugar is to be used. Domestic orders will come in the preferred class. So will sugar for condensed milk, medicine and sugar for the preservation of food or the conservation of the food supply generally.

"In the second class will be sugar for any other less essential purposes." Mr. Bacon has followed the present situation closely. He believes that the private consumer is largely to blame for it.

"The people have in some way learned of the scarcity," said Mr. Bacon, "and have bought more than their legitimate needs require. In Pennsylvania from 20 to 25 per cent more sugar has been used this year than during the same period last year."

Expects Heavy Exports

Mr. Bacon sees relief from the present stringency in greater quantities of sugar being shipped to the refiners. He says that from now to the first of the year shipments of raw sugar to the seaboard refineries will be heavier than during the same period last year by 200,000 tons.

Another important fact brought out by Mr. Bacon is that the food administration will not be legally dissolved until peace is signed and could step in if dealers tried to force their prices too high. At present refiners are paying 7.28 cents a pound for the raw product, selling it at a profit of about one cent for cash to the wholesaler and the wholesaler in turn are selling it at nine and one-half cents a pound plus freight to the retailer.

Grocers Having Hard Time

Grocers are having difficulty getting sufficient sugar to supply their regular customers.

One of the largest retailers said today that his firm was forced to buy direct from the refiner, and had to be content with a barrel or two of sugar where they could get it. "We have had to put our customers on a restricted supply," said the manager.

"The situation is worse than it was," said the buyer of another big grocery concern. "We are able barely to supply our customers' needs. We are giving our regular customers their usual supply of sugar, no more. We are selling only a pound or two to other customers."

"The refiners are back in their orders, and are not willing to accept additional business. We cannot buy from the jobbers—they haven't any sugar to sell."

"I believe the refiners are trying to act fairly. They want to make as equitable a distribution of sugar as possible. And I don't believe there is danger of excessive retail prices."

"I believe every one will have sufficient sugar for their legitimate needs if only they will not get panicky and try to hoard it. There is enough sugar to go around."

Charles J. Hepburn, chief counsel for the Pennsylvania food administration, said today that he believed it was the sensible thing for grocers to ration sugar to their customers, as it will prevent hoarding and safeguard the supply. He said that two pounds of sugar sold with a dollar's worth of groceries was a greater profit amount than was permitted during war times.

DIRIGIBLE TO PASS TODAY

O-1, Bound for Trenton, to Soar Over City

The United States navy dirigible O-1 is scheduled to fly over this city today on its way to the Trenton fair.

The crew will drop "bombs" loaded with publicity matter detailing the advantages of life in the navy. The flight is part of the navy's recruiting campaign.

The internationally famous NC-4 is expected to reach here next Sunday evening or early Monday morning. The flying craft first will be anchored off League Island and soon afterward fly to Vine street pier.

Camden Man Hurt by Auto

A skidding automobile knocked down Howard Lewellen, sixty years old, of 826 South Eighth street, Camden, today at Broadway and Clinton streets, Camden. One of Mr. Lewellen's ribs was fractured. Benjamin Christy, of 1692 Filmore street, Camden, owner and driver of the car, was arrested, but later released on his own recognizance.

Father Sees Car Hit Daughter

Just as Leonard Leat, a motorman, was leaving his home at 919 North Sixth street, Camden, to go to work today, he saw a motor car knock down his two-year-old daughter, Elizabeth, and run over her right foot. He carried her to the Cooper Hospital. It is feared that it will be necessary to amputate the child's foot at the ankle.

TAFT IN CONFERENCE ON TREATY BATTLE

Ex-President Sees Senators. Both Sides Claim Victory After Fall Defeat

Washington, Oct. 3.—Former President Taft, who came here today to appear before a congressional committee considering a national budget system, participated in private discussions of Republican senators regarding reservations to the peace treaty. He conferred with several Republicans, including so-called "mild" reservationists, and expected later to see Senator Hitchcock, of Nebraska, the administration leader in the treaty fight, and other Democratic senators.

Washington, Oct. 3.—(By A. P.)—Having disposed of all except one of the Fall amendments to the peace treaty by a majority of negative votes, the Senate was prepared today to take up other features of the pact.

The future course of the Senate, in its consideration of the treaty, with its league-of-nations covenant, was undecided early today, but it was expected that leaders would soon agree on a program to be carried out in the effort to speed up action.

There remained today the unacted-on amendment proposed by Senator Fall, Republican, New Mexico, to limit American representation to the reparations commission, six amendments to the league covenant, and two minor amendments.

The vote on the Fall amendments, all of which were rejected by majorities ranging from fifteen to twenty-eight votes, still continued today to be interpreted in varying lights. Treaty supporters considered the vote a distinct victory for their forces, while leaders of the opposition said the results of the roll calls could only be interpreted as a victory for them, inasmuch as the votes of treaty opponents as registered on the roll calls, together with absentees of the same opinion, guaranteed sufficient votes to bring about the treaty's defeat, unless reservations are accepted.

Whatever the course decided on much debate is expected. Senators Jones, Republican, Washington, and Thomas, Democrat, Colorado, were expected to speak today.

SUES IN NORTH PENN CASE

Northern Trust Accused of Negligence, Causing Loss on Check

Failure of the Northern Trust Company to collect on a check for $2500.80, drawn on the North Penn Bank, resulted today in a suit being brought in Common Pleas Court No. 1 by Edward A. Kroll, against the trust company, to collect that sum, plus interest from July 12.

On July 12, Kroll states, he received a check from a laundry company, drawn on their account with the North Penn Bank, for the amount involved. On the same day Kroll says he deposited the check to his account with the defendant trust company. He charged they were negligent in not presenting the check to the bank immediately for collection, holding it until July 10, when, he says, the bank refused to honor the check, although the laundry company had sufficient cash on deposit to cover the amount.

It was not until July 19, he says, that he received notice through the mail that the North Penn Bank would not honor the check. That was the day after the bank's doors were closed by the State Banking Department after an examination of the concern's books.

ALBERT FORMALLY ENTERS N. Y. TODAY

Belgian King Boards Yacht and Returns to City for Reception

CHEERS FOR ROYAL PARTY

By the Associated Press
New York, Oct. 4.—The king and queen of the Belgians, with Prince Leopold, heir apparent to the throne, cast aside today the royal "incognito" which had shrouded them since their welcome at noon yesterday to the United States by Vice President Marshall, and boarded the yacht Noma in the Hudson river to make their "formal" entry into New York.

Driving rapidly by automobile from the Waldorf-Astoria, where they spent the night in a royal suite, to the foot of West 71st street, the royal visitors were received by Kodman Wamamaker, chairman of Mayor Hylan's committee on reception to distinguished guests, committee members and city officials.

The Noma immediately cast off and started on a cruise about the harbor prior to the "official" landing at the Battery at 11:45 o'clock.

Honorary Citizenship of City

The party arrived at City Hall at 12:15 o'clock and was given a formal welcome to the state and city of New York by Governor Smith and Mayor Hylan. Honorary citizenship of the city was conferred upon the king. The royal party then motored to the Waldorf for a private luncheon. At 3:30 o'clock the king and queen will be greeted by 50,000 school children in Central Park and the king will plant a tree. There was no other formal plans for the day, but it was understood that the king, queen and prince planned to visit a theatre tonight.

The incognito which the king and queen chose to assume upon their arrival yesterday was a novel to New Yorkers, as was the actual fact of the presence in the city for the first time in history of a reigning king and queen. The "incognito" proved only partially effective, so far as Albert was concerned.

Soldier King Recognized

When he went for an automobile tour of the city with Prince Leopold the well-known face of the "soldier king" was frequently recognized and he was fervently cheered. He received an especially enthusiastic ovation at Columbia University, where he was recognized by a throng of students leaving their classes.

At the close of his ride King Albert visited the Belgian Bureau, where he was greeted by 200 Belgians in an informal reception arranged by Monsignor J. F. Sillemans, bureau director. The king decorated Monsignor Sillemans with the order of Knight of the Crown and conferred on Pierre Mall, Belgian consul general, a commandership of the same order.

Queen Elizabeth's "incognito" aided by a heavy white veil, proved more effective. Accompanied by the Baroness de Carman Chimay, her lady in waiting, and the Baroness de Carriere de Marchienne, wife of the Belgian ambassador to the United States, the queen visited several Fifth avenue department stores and made small purchases from saleswomen, who failed to realize the rank of their quiet customer.

The royal party will remain in New York until tomorrow, when they will start on a tour of the nation, which will take them to the Pacific coast and back again to Washington, where they will be received at the White House. The first scheduled stop is Boston, where the royal party is expected to arrive on Sunday morning.

INVALID ATTEMPTS DEATH

Man Found With Wrists Slashed After Foot is Amputated

Wearing of an uplift flight for health, John Conway, twenty-three years old, of 832 North Forty-second street, tried to end his life early today by cutting his wrists with a razor. He is at the Presbyterian Hospital, with a chance for recovery.

Conway was injured in an automobile accident about six months ago, and it was found necessary to amputate his left foot. After the operation his health failed and he was an invalid.

This morning about 3:30 o'clock he arose and went into the bathroom. There he drank an overdose of a nerve medicine and then slashed his wrists. His mother had heard him enter the bathroom. Wondering why he remained there so long she investigated. She called for help and Conway was taken to the Presbyterian Hospital.

Bucks County Club Women Meet

Doylesdale, Pa., Oct. 3.—A hundred women are present today at the fall meeting of the Bucks County Federation of Women's Clubs, in convention at Warrington, near here. Mrs. Walter Hancock, of Philadelphia, president of the Dillomusius Club, made the chief address.

Parker Invades Court to Seek "Phantom" Vote

Somebody told John Clinton Parker, "workman's candidate" for the Republican mayoralty nomination, that he had received 65,000 votes.

He came to inquire today at the return court, City Hall.

"What's the idea?" shouted Parker when his inquiry did not seem to get him much attention.

"The idea of what?" asked Judge Audenried.

"I want to know how many votes I got. I was the workman's candidate for Mayor."

"You didn't get many," answered Judge Audenried. "Judge Ferguson says 600—but I don't believe it will come to more than 300."

"They told me it was 65,000," said Parker, as he departed.

20 'SUB' CHASERS FOR SALE

Are Homelike, With Steam Heat, Electric Lights, Hardwood Floors

Uncle Sam has twenty submarine chaser boats for sale.

In view of the high cost of houses, the craft might make ideal homes. They have steam heat, electric light, brass finishings, hardwood floors and, best of all, a wireless system. For a yard, there's the river.

This home on the water would also cut down cost of vacations, eliminate trolley car and railroad fares, taxes, water rent, etc. Then, too, the expense of searching the title will be dispensed with, as there is no doubt about Uncle Sam's ownership.

Each boat is 110 feet long—just about the depth of an average city home—and lot.

Two of the boats will be offered for sale at the Philadelphia Navy Yard. Proposals must be made on or before October 8 and should be sent to the Bureau of Supplies and Accounts, Navy Department, Washington, D. C.

There are no mortgages on the boats, which fly the Stars and Stripes. They are "clear" from bow to stern.

TEN ADMITTED TO BAR

Superintendent of House of Detention to Practice Law

Henry P. Richardson, superintendent of the House of Detention, was today admitted to practice of law in the courts of Philadelphia. He was sworn in as a member of the bar before President Judge Lamorelle and Judges Anderson, Gummy and Gest in the Orphans' Court.

Adrian Bonnelly, official interpreter and marriage license clerk of the Orphans' Court, was also sworn in as a member of the bar of the Orphans' Court, together with Michael J. Matta, Edward A. McMahan, Stanley S. Solomon, Max C. Baylison, Frank G. Tait, Joseph A. McGinnis, Ellis Ruman and Herman Ferry, all of whom are students of Temple University.

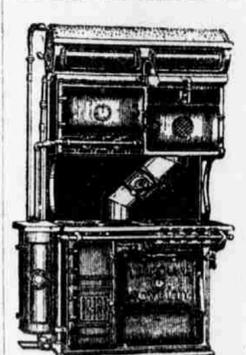

LECTURE AT Y. M. C. A.

Speaker Will Discuss "The United States as a World Power"

The Friday evening open forum at the Central Y. M. C. A. will begin its work for the season tonight. The subject for the opening lecture will be "The United States as a World Power." It will be given by Arthur D. Rees, of the Wharton School of the University of Pennsylvania, who will be the forum leader for the year.

The forum is intended for public discussion of all vital problems. Questions and comments are invited after the lecture, and topics are to be treated upon liberal and progressive lines. The admission is free, and every one is invited. Various prominent speakers will participate during the year. The lectures begin promptly at 7:30 o'clock.

CARSON MAY LOSE PLACE ON TICKET

Official Count of Votes Cuts Down His Lead for Magistrate

STEVENSON CREEPS UP

Magistrate Robert Carson's estimated majority over his nearest competitor has been reduced to so great an extent by the official count of primary ballots that there was doubt today whether he would keep his place on the ticket.

This was made evident by the morning's tally at the return court in City Hall, Judges Audenried and Ferguson presiding.

Four Republican magistrates are to be nominated. Magistrate Carson ran as an independent, and according to the unofficial police figures made a strong bid for fourth place. His majority of about 300 has been cut down greatly, however, in the last few days, while the vote of his nearest rival, Magistrate Maxwell Stevenson, another independent, has been increased.

According to the estimates of both sides today, Magistrate Carson is still ahead, but his lead is so small as to be almost negligible.

Judge Ferguson recalled an order for the recounting of the ballots from the eighth and ninth divisions of the Twenty-fifth ward after hearing statements of signers of the petition that they had been deceived.

The signers in the eighth division were Joseph O'Donnell, 2945 East Thompson street; James McAlarney, 2029 Salmon street, and Joseph Witkowski, 2243 East Thompson street.

Witkowski asserted that he had been deceived into signing the petition by O'Donnell, and that he had not sworn to it.

In the ninth division the signers of the petition were Rocco Calvato, 2639 East Somerset street; Gaetano Quarta, 2441 East Somerset street, and Roster De Lizo, 2449 East Somerset street.

De Lizio said that he did not see the vote counted in the ninth division. The count of ballots has now reached the Thirty-eighth ward. So far, ballots cast in twenty-six wards have been counted. The count has embraced 635 divisions, leaving 721 divisions to be counted.

When the report on the recount in the ninth division of the Thirty-eighth ward was read in court today it was found that the figures did not tally. John Masterson, the clerk who made the recount, was called into court and required to make the necessary correction.

Wade gained one vote in the count of the Ninth ward ballots, but Lamberton, his rival in the race for the Republican nomination for sheriff, gained one vote in the count of Tenth ward ballots.

More gained three votes in the fourth division of the Thirty-eighth ward. Several election boards were summoned to appear before the court and account for unused ballots.

SAY MIGRATORY BIRDS WILL REMAIN HERE

Zoological Garden Heads Assert Feathered Tribe Find Sufficient Food There

Migratory birds, scarlet tanagers, buntings, thrushes, sparrows and other varieties, finding they can obtain ample food in the Philadelphia Zoological Garden, will not fly south this year, zoological officials say.

The little warblers, the song sparrows, sparrow and even the old night heron will remain at home.

Philadelphia migratory birds have learned that all the food they can eat can be found at the Philadelphia Zoological Garden, where men carry buckets around morning and night, and where visitors can swoop down and feast with their feathered mates in captivity.

Superintendent Brown, of the Zoo, declares that birds of a feather really do flock together. The night heron, for instance, spends all of his time in the trees above the enclosures that hold his species which are in captivity. Others get as near as possible to their kin.

In the big great airlight birdhouse dozens of specimens are in the central flying cage. And one would think they would become sociable with long association, but they don't.

TO ARREST EGG DEALERS

Order Follows Probe of Sales in This City

Investigations made of the sale of eggs in this city alleged not to be fresh, but sold as such have resulted in finding nine out of twelve that were stale in two instances reported to James Foust, director of the bureau of foods, in Harrisburg today.

In another case ten of twelve eggs sold as "strictly fresh" were found stale, while in still another eight of a dozen were below par. Arrests were ordered in each case.

The state food agents brought thirty-three suits for violation of milk and ice cream acts and two for violation of the cold storage act in selling goods that had been stored longer than the legal period.

The revenue of the bureau for licenses for sale of oleomargarine last month was over $4700. Since the first of the year the bureau income, which is largely made up of "oleo" licenses, has been over $525,000.
